ADVENT: BEGINNINGS AND ENDINGS

Advent is the beginning of the liturgical year; in the Christian calendar, each year finds a new start on the First Sunday of Advent. As structured in Roman Catholic practice today, the season begins with a focus on the end of time itself, then it takes us to a specific time when John the Baptist was preaching that end—the coming of God’s reign and the arrival of the messiah who would introduce that reign. Finally, it directs us to what is, from a Christian perspective, the hinge of all history: the birth of Jesus of Nazareth, son of Mary and Joseph, son of God (see Introduction to the Lectionary for Mass, 93).

Our current season, therefore, serves as a bridge between the two celebrations of Christ’s coming—his coming in time, celebrated in the Christmas Season, and his return at the end of time, celebrated especially at the end of the liturgical year, from about the Solemnity of All Saints and especially on the Solemnity of Christ the King. So even though Advent comes before Christmas in the calendar and is usually thought of simply as preparatory to Christmas, it is not merely a pre-Christmas season. In fact, Advent is a bridge that connects our celebrations of Christ’s two comings: a reminder that the fulfillment of Christ’s reign that we anticipate is rooted in the historical fact of the incarnation. The readings and other texts reflect the bridge character of this season and so should our music.

CHRISTMAS

The Christmas Season is not so much a season as it is a collection of feasts, each reflecting a facet of the meaning of the incarnation. Together, this complex of feasts helps us understand what it means to name Jesus Christ “Emmanuel”—“God who is with us.” The major festivals of the Christmas Season are deeply theological rather than historical. That is, unlike the Paschal Triduum, which is linked to the time of year that Jesus died, these celebrations are not linked in any way to the actual date of Jesus’ birth. We don’t know what time of year that was (though it was probably in or about the year 6 or 4 BCE, and he was probably born in Bethlehem). Instead, the Christmas feasts highlight the theological meaning of Jesus and his mother: Jesus is truly human as well as truly divine; his mission as the Christ is to the whole world; that mission involves such routine parts of human existence as family life; and we are involved in Christ’s mission through baptism. The Solemnity of Mary Mother of God (January 1) focuses on Mary’s unique place in salvation history as well as on the intimate involvement of human beings in the fulfillment of the divine plan: God has chosen to act through us to reveal the meaning of creation.

LENT

Lent is not self-contained; it is a preparation for Easter and is, therefore, forward looking and focused on the meaning and the rites of Baptism. For catechumens, the season is a time for the final ritual stages of the process leading to sacramental initiation at the Easter Vigil: the rite of election, the scrutinies, and continuing catechesis. For the rest of the Church, it is a time to reflect on personal and communal continuing participation in these sacramental rites and, therefore, since all are sinners who are not fully living the meaning of these rites, a time for “listening more intently to the word of God and devoting themselves to prayer,” preparing “through a spirit of repentance to renew their baptismal promises” (Ceremonial of Bishops, 249). Lent, in other words, focuses on what it means to live every day as a Christian. For catechumens, it is the final opportunity to understand the demands of such a life before committing irrevocably to it at Easter; for those already so committed, it is an opportunity to recognize that they may have wandered away from those demands but that the grace of God is greater than their failure.

EASTER: THE GREAT FIFTY DAYS

We seem to be better at penitence than we are at celebration. We love to prepare for a feast—look at all the preparations we make for Thanksgiving and Christmas, but we really don't know how to extend a celebration, let alone how to make one last for fifty days. That's why Lent is such a great ritual and devotional success, and the Easter Season, apart from the feasts that begin and end it, is such a seemingly inconsequential part of the liturgical year. Yet this is the season par excellence for celebration: "These days above all others are the days for the singing of the Alleluia." This statement in the General Norms for the Liturgical Year and the Calendar serves as an accurate summary of this season's intended focus, and the document elaborates: "The fifty days from Easter Sunday to Pentecost are celebrated in joyful exultation as one feast day, or better as one 'great Sunday'" (no. 22). [...]

So how do we get from where we are to where we ought to be? How do we get better at extended celebration? Perhaps we get there by imitating the sort of sliding focus of the celebration that the liturgical books offer us. A celebration can't be all singing or all dancing or all appetizers or main courses or desserts, but a good celebration incorporates all of these elements. Similarly, the Easter Season offers us these foci for celebration: the paschal candle, Alleluia, the stories of the early Church, texts from the Fourth Gospel, and ideas provided by the entrance antiphons.
